

ChèRee Wiley's Bio

ChèRee Wiley is a dedicated educator and passionate advocate for equity in education, with over a decade of experience across various educational settings. Holding multiple advanced degrees, including an M.ED. in Educational Leadership from High Tech High, an M.F.A. in Creative Writing Fiction from Southern New Hampshire University, a M.A.T. in English Education and a dual M.A. in English and African American Literature from NC Agricultural & Technical State University, ChèRee's academic background is both diverse and robust.

ChèRee has a proven track record of working with diverse populations, focusing on equitable practices and fostering asset-based learning environments. Her professional journey includes roles such as VEA Virtual Learning Content Creator, Supervisor of Equity & Culture, and English Department Lead. Additionally, ChèRee has extensive experience as a virtual instructor, curriculum developer, and educational presenter.

Throughout her career, ChèRee has effectively communicated research results to school division leadership, particularly in areas like shifting from deficit mindsets to asset-based practices. Her ability to present complex data in a clear and engaging manner has facilitated significant positive changes within educational communities.

ChèRee's entrepreneurial spirit drives her to view challenges as opportunities for growth and innovation. Her excellent communication, analytical thinking, organizational, and collaboration skills, coupled with her deep commitment to equity, make her a valuable contributor to any educational space.